SUFFRAGETTES IN CHINA ARE VIOLENT, TOO

"The English suffragettes aren't the only ones who have taken up weapons," said a passenger on the Pacific Mail liner Korea this morning, returning from a trip to the Far East.

"The British sisters have not anything on the Chinese 'Votes for Women' brigade. While in Nanking a dozen Chinese women forced an entry into the House on March 20, the day after the woman suffrage bill passed its final stage in the Nanking Assembly, and, after having hunted for the President and failed to find him, they became very violent. They smashed windows, ransacked and broke furniture just as gaily as the women have been doing in London."

According to news from China, this outbreak was caused by the fact that the suffrage bill does not provide immediate granting of the right to vote or political participation of the women. Chinese suffragettes have formed the 'Woman Suffragists' Association and have been attending the meetings of the Assembly at Nanking in a body. They went to call upon Dr. Sun Yat Sen and urged him to send his two daughters with them back to the Assembly.

The Assembly posted constables to preserve order, but the suffragettes put them to rout time and again. The latest news is that the Assembly will re-open the question of granting the right to vote immediately.

RATS, DANCERS AND HERCULES AT THE BIJOU

A program of several acts will be presented at the Bijou tonight, two practically new, and with changes by all artists.

Pier, the strong man, gives an act that is full of thrills. He balances plowshares, wagon wheels, tables and chairs, as well as feathers, upon his chin. He is an acrobat also.

Graham's trained rats, forty in number, continue to be a big drawing card. The four Russian dancers will make a complete change. This act has been a headliner at the Bijou and continues so for the week.

The motion pictures are becoming better and better, the selections being more carefully made. This week's pictures will run the gamut of comedy, drama and pathos, with wild western adventures thrown in occasionally.

HAWAII IS LURE FOR A BANKER FROM OHIO

Lured by the charm of Hawaii, an Ohio banker and capitalist has decided to give up his winter home in Los Angeles for Honolulu. He has purchased the Fred, Lyman beach property just beyond the Campbell place on the Diamond Head road for $37,500. The deal was consummated last Saturday. The property has been on the market for some time at a price said to have been $40,000 and the Ohio man's offer of $37,500 took it. The place has a frontage of about 340 feet on the sea and is some 2½ acres in extent. The improvements in the way of structures are negligible. It was stated this morning that the purchaser, whose name is not made public, will improve the property with a fine beach residence and that he has definitely determined to make his winter home here instead of Los Angeles.

HELPED SURVEY PEARL HARBOR; NOW REVISITING

Captain Chester M. Knepper, U. S. N., who has just been relieved from duty as commander of the Helena, with the Asiatic fleet, and who is on his way to probable detail at the War College, was an arrival on the Korea this morning. Captain Knepper had the distinction of having been on the original board that surveyed Pearl Harbor bar and channel in 1894. On the same board was Professor Alexander of this city, and it was due entirely to the favorable reports sent in by Captain Knepper, then a young officer, and his associates, that the government undertook the big project.

This afternoon Captain Knepper is visiting the Pearl Harbor reservation and viewing the big drydock and building operations, in company with Paymaster H. E. Stevens of the Honolulu naval station. The two were shipmates during the Spanish war, and went through the Santiago engagement together.

"The China situation and affairs generally in the Far East are very quiet," said Captain Knepper this morning. "There has been no change for months. I heard no news as to when the Pacific fleet would be ordered back to the Coast."

PATRIOTIC FISH.

Among a number of fish caught by a fisherman in the Connecticut River at Springfield was one that was colored red, white and blue. The fish was placed on exhibition and was identified as a white perch, whose back had in some way been dyed red and the under side blue. It is thought the perch got too close to the glazed paper factory at Springfield and was colored by the fast dyes which are continually flowing from the drain pipe.

According to report brought by the Mauna Kea, the American schooner Melrose sailed from Mahukona for San Francisco on last Saturday.
